Congress To Be The Scene Of Grand Battle Royal When Alignments Are Drawn Closely.

THE BANKS VERSUS DEMAGOGUES

Backed By The Farmers And Members Of The Stock Exchanges The Bankers Promise To Make A Merry War On The Reformers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., March 14.—Events transpiring here within the past few days give promise of a bitter fight soon to be waged in the halls of Congress between the farming interests, the banks and the reformers, on the one hand, and the reformers and so-called demagogues, on the other. The bone of contention is to be the stock and grain exchanges as they exist today in the financial centers of the country, and, whatever the outcome, the struggle bids fair to be all absorbing and full of interest to the American public.

Following the lead taken by practically all of the cotton-belt states in striking at stock gambling and the very existence of the cotton exchanges themselves through laws making speculation in "futures" illegal, fully half a score of similar measures have been introduced in the national legislature since the opening of this session. Their introduction, however, has not been greeted with any wild storms of applause from the people at large, nor on the contrary has resulted in the filing of numerous petitions pointing out the dangers of this class of legislation, and in the visit to Washington of a host of delegations representing commercial and agricultural bodies, trying to convince the legislators that the cotton exchanges are not forward in the petitions, and a committee representing the Chicago board of trade has been here for some days, supplying members of Congress with facts and figures to prove the contentions of its members that to disturb or overthrow the present system of marketing the grain crops of the United States will inevitably prove disastrous alike to the farmer and the consumer.

This party, headed by William N. Sawyer, president of the Chicago board of trade, brought with them, among other things, a petition signed by the officers of practically every bank and trust company in the western metropolis, as well as protocols from the leading commercial associations of the West and Southwest, urging the federal government to undertake any legislation calculated to restrict or alter existing methods of marketing the nation's corn and wheat crops. The party got the President's ear, and quite a lengthy conference was held at the White House, during which, it is understood, Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his views on this question as expressed in a recent message to Congress, viz.: that the "bucket shops" should be eliminated, but that extreme care should be taken not to disturb the legitimate trading business which is so essential to continued prosperity.

The various exchanges, it seems, all are heartily in favor of legislating the "bucket shop" out of existence, as they claim that, because the law does not readily distinguish between the legitimate exchange and the ordinary bucket shop, the exchanges are blamed for financial losses accomplished through the medium of their smaller imitators. The bucket shops, it is urged, do the only legitimate business, in that they merely take bets on the rise or decline of prices, while transactions on the exchange entail what to all intents and purposes is an actual transfer of grain or stock.

It is now generally recognized that with the exchanges in existence, the farmer is enabled to get the benefit of competitive buying, which would not be the case were he compelled to wait the harvesting of his crop and then sell it to the first and, perhaps, the only buyer or bidder. It is also before the existing system of marketing was perfected, exporters were compelled to protect themselves with a wider margin of profit, and, foreign competition entering the field and precluding the possibility of their dictating the selling price, the first sales—the farmer—had to bear the brunt of his situation and accept the price offered by the exporter. Today the grain business is carried on with only a few cents' margin of profit to the trader, with the result that the farmer is enabled to realize a much better price for his crops.

These anti-futures or anti-futures trading bills all have been referred to a committee, and it is probable that by the time they come up for a hearing Congress will be swarmed with letters, telegrams and petitions pro and con. Neither side showed its hand during the preliminary skirmishing here this week. It was quite possible that the defenders will marshal the largest numbers and the heaviest artillery, for there is understood to be a reactionary feeling in a number of states where this class of legislation has been tried, to the loss of the planter and farmer.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

Things In The Political Arena Will be Objects of Attention Next Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., March 14.—Apart from politics the coming week does not hold a great deal in prospect in the way of big news events. The American battleship fleet will begin its largest practice in Madagascari bay, the leaders in the New York-Panama automobile race will enter the Rocky Mountain section, and there may be some interesting developments in the Far East.

King Edward is cruising about the Mediterranean and Emperor William is due to start for the region. The travels of these two monarchs will naturally afford grist for the news mill and food for reflection in the various chancelleries of Europe.

Grover Cleveland, the only living ex-President of the United States, will observe his seventy-first birthday next Wednesday at his home in Princeton.

The next seven days will form a critical period in Republican national political affairs, witnessing further progress of the Taft boom on the one hand and more thorough organization of the opposition on the other. The conventions, State and district, to be held next week, will for the most part be in Secretary Taft's favor.

The State convention will be held in Des Moines, Iowa, which State is practically conceded to Taft. An expression in his favor is likewise expected from the New Mexican territorial convention to be held next Saturday.

The Taft managers likewise expect favorable results from district conventions to be held during the week commencing on the eighteenth, twentieth, twenty-first and twenty-third districts of Illinois, all of which will be held during the week.

Governor Johnson of Minnesota, Secretary Taft and Governor Hughes are listed as speakers at the annual banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in New York city Tuesday night. Senator Knox will be heard at a similar function in Philadelphia the same night. If Governor Johnson decides to keep his engagement and make the trip East, the event will probably have important developments in regard to his boom for the Democratic presidential nomination.

NEW ENGLAND THE POLITICAL ARENA

Massachusetts May Send Uninstructed Delegation to National Convention.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., March 14.—Massachusetts has recently received personal visits from both Taft and Hughes, the result of which has been to make more manifest the probability that the Old Bay State will send an uninstructed delegation to the republican national convention. The state appears to be pretty evenly divided in regard to its preference for the presidential nomination. Between the Secretary of War and the New York governor the republicans find it hard to make a definite choice. This section of the state is inclined towards Taft, while the western half of the state, probably because of its proximity to New York, looks with increasing favor upon the Hughes boom. The range exists between the two Massachusetts senators, Lodge favoring Taft, while Crane, who is the most powerful republican leader of Massachusetts so far as the western portion of the state is concerned, is an avowed Hughes man. Senator Crane is making a hot fight for an uninstructed delegation. If his advice is followed by Massachusetts the effect in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont may be of consequence.

WISCONSIN RELAY CARNIVAL TONIGHT

Second Annual Indoor Relay Meet to be Held at Gymnasium Tonight.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 14.—Many athletes, representing the cream of the collegiate and scholastic performers of the Middle West, have been straggling into this city all day for the second annual indoor relay carnival at the University of Wisconsin. In the number of competing athletes and their high quality, the meet will break all records at the university. The feature of the meeting is the conference championship event, in which Illinois, Chicago and Minnesota meets Wisconsin over the mile course.

SAVANNAH READY FOR AUTO RACES

Promoters Predict That It Will be the Best Automobile Meeting Ever Held.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Savannah, Ga., March 14.—Interest in next week's race meeting of the Savannah Automobile Club is at fever heat, and the promoters of the meet predict that it will be the peer of anything ever held in America, not excluding even the Vanderbilt Cup contest. A number of the cars entered for the meeting are already here tuning up for the race and the remainder of the entries are expected within a day or two.

The conditions surrounding the meet promise to be everything that could be desired. The races will be run on an eighteen-mile road course, just outside of Savannah. The course is a remarkable one and of unequalled road conditions. There are two straightaways of about five miles each, over hard flint-surfaced roads, and wide enough for three cars to run abreast at top speed. There is a shorter stretch of river road and a winding causeway built over the sea marshes. In all, there are twelve turns, ten of which have been banked in order to allow the turns to be made at full speed. At two points on the course, where street cars make their run, the track has been turned up and the road perfectly surfaced.

On the day of the contests the on-course will be thoroughly policed by troops of the Georgia National Guard. In addition, all cross roads will be closed off, and the entire course will be closed.

SIX MEN ARE AFTER AMATEUR CUE TITLE

National Billiard Championship Tournaments Opens Tonight at
C. A. A.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., March 14.—With an entry list comprising half a dozen of the leading amateur billiard players of the United States, the national championship tournament opens tonight at the clubhouse of the Chicago Athletic association. These six players are acknowledged the best of the amateur ranks, and contain absolutely to the amateur status of the sport.

The six experts are Calvin Demarest, the present national champion, and his team mate, C. F. Conklin, who finished second last year, both representing the C. A. A.; Clarence Jackson, representing the new Illinois A. C. of this city; H. A. Wright of San Francisco; J. Fred Poggenburg of New York, a former national champion, and Edward W. Gardner of New Jersey, who won the national title in 1902 and 1906.

In order to accommodate the spectators, who will be admitted by card of invitation only, the large banquet hall on the eighth floor of the C. A. A. clubhouse, has been especially fitted up as an amphitheater with the tiered seats in the center of the floor of seats. Accommodations will be provided for 400 spectators.

ASSOCIATION PLANS FOR A BIG MEETING

Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and the District of Columbia will be represented at the meeting.

The program completed for the gathering provides for addresses by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, L. C. Coulter, state secretary of Virginia, C. L. Fay, industrial secretary for Pennsylvania, J. K. Ober, of New York City; Rev. S. H. Woodrow, of Washington, D. C.; Lieut. Col. E. W. Hafford, U. S. A., and a number of other men of prominence.

ROCKEFELLER GETS MORE DIVIDENDS

Receives $3,750,000 as Quarterly Dividends on Standard Oil Stock.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, March 14.—Out of a total of $14,750,000 paid out in dividends by the Standard Oil Company today at the rate of $15 a share, John D. Rockefeller, who owns 25 per cent of all the stock, received $3,750,000, bringing up the total of his returns from Standard Oil stock for the past six months to $6,250,000.

This total paid out in dividends by the company during the last six months is approximately $25,000,000. Fifteen men own 50 per cent of the stock and in the last ten years have received as dividends $189,000,000. Of this John D. Rockefeller received $117,000,000.

The profits of the company since 1882 amount to approximately $900,000,000, of which $670,000,000 has been paid in dividends. The net earnings of the company for the last six years are estimated at over $455,000,000.

DYNAMITE CAPS EXPLODED; BLEW MAN INTO AIR

Monroe Workman Will Die From the Effects of His Injuries This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., March 14.—While working in the cellar of the new cold storage warehouse opposite the St. Paul depot this morning, Nick Gogger struck a lost box of dynamite caps with his pick axe and was blown thirty feet into the air and a distance of fifty feet. Both eyes were blown out and his left leg so badly shattered it will have to be cut off if he survives. Seven other men and a team of horses were working near him and one man had a quantity of dynamite ready for a blast but no one else was injured. Gogger was forty years old and married and has three children.

ARRESTED SUSPECTS OF COUNTERFEITING

Milwaukee Detectives Take Into Custody Men Passing Spurious Money.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., March 14.—Until this morning it had been a long time since the police had caught a man circulating counterfeit money. Detectives Schweitzer, Northington, Burns and Mungler claimed that eighteen dollars in counterfeit quarters is sufficient evidence that Carlo Zaccaroni was engaged in passing money and made by Uncle Sam. Secret Service General McManus believes the defendant to be one of the Italian gang of counterfeiters which was discovered in Chicago last week and which was broken up by the arrest of four of the members.

The company will appeal to the court of cassation.

PARNELL ESCAPED ON EARLY TRAIN BOUND FOR WEST

Rode on Bumpers From Monroe to Gratiot Then Went Overland to Warrens.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., March 14.—It was learned this morning that two men, one answering Parnell's description, ran out from between the warehouse yesterday morning as the westbound St. Paul freight pulled out and jumped onto the bumpers between the fourth and fifth cars. Brakeman Richter and Conductor Dan Davey both saw the men and their description of Parnell is exact with that of the authorities. The men rode as far as Gratiot, then walked overland five miles to Warrens where they took an Illinois Central train for the south. It is not thought certain that Parnell made a connection with the electric light of the jail and used an electric drill to work through the wall with bits of extension wires have been found showing this could have been the method used. Sheriff Mat Durell is in Chicago hoping to find trace of the man there.

Cardinal James Gibbons And His Cathedral Where He Preaches The
First Sunday in Every Month.

Cardinal James Gibbons, head of the American Catholic church, is one of the most beloved Americans of today, is popular with the masses and with the rich alike, revered by his own church and by every other denomination and religion.

In studying into the secret of Cardinal Gibbons' hold on the American people we find that two predominant factors characterized his life. He is thoroughly democratic, with simple tastes, and the fact that he lives as he preaches. Cardinal Gibbons is a true friend of the American laboring men and they know it. He exercises every effort in his sympathy a practical far-sightedness and economic conservatism which demonstrates to the capitalist that he is far-sighted and reasonable. He lends a very simple life. In his home in Baltimore he is surrounded by none of the pomp and arrogance of the European prelates. The house is simply furnished and the poorest of his callers feel perfectly at home when interviewing the cardinal. He has an excellent faculty for reading human nature and seldom makes a mistake on first impressions. The cardinal devotes a considerable part of each day to advising and counseling people who come to him.

On the other hand he is a favorite with well bred society leaders in Baltimore and is usually seen in attendance at the speakers' table at all large banquets, where his speeches are always timely and well received. One of the great factors in his success in the pulpit is the fact that people know that whatever he says and preaches he lives himself.

The cardinal is very fond of walking and seldom takes when the weather is favorable. This may in some way account for his good health. Many a man with the work to do of the cardinal would have broken down years ago. Cardinal Gibbons' favorite line of work outside of the church is in literature. He writes much for current publications and is thoroughly posted on economic and political principles and ideas. His library on the third floor of his home is where he delights to spend his time in studying and writing and had he not chosen the priestly vocation for his life's work he would undoubtedly have devoted himself to literature. In 1911 he will celebrate his silver anniversary as cardinal of the church. The cardinal is past 70 years of age, but is so hearty and vigorous that he bids fair to wear the crimson many years longer.

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN TEACH-ERS' ASSOCIATION IN SES-SION TODAY.

DR. RAVENEL SPEAKS ON

Tuberculosis and the Schools—Tells the Pedagogues That Patent Medicine is a Curse.

[Special to the Gazette.]

Madison, Wis., March 14.—In an address on "Tuberculosis and the Schools," delivered in the closing session of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' Association convention this morning, Dr. M. P. Ravenel, head of the bacteriology department of the University of Wisconsin, urged a campaign against the "prominently American habit of promiscuous expec-toration," asking that children be taught that they must not spit in public places, and that they must have plenty of fresh air and good food, and that they must sleep in cold rooms. Dr. Ravenel declared that tuberculosis can not be inherited, and that it is entirely preventable; yet a population equal to that of six cities the size of Madison is annually wiped out in the United States for lack of preventative methods.

"150,000 Die of it Annually."
"The recent interest in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis in America is very gratifying to those who have been working on the problem for some years," said Dr. Ravenel.
"This interest is justified by the terrible mortality of the disease, this so-called 'White Plague.' In the United States 400 people die daily from this single disease; a grand total of 150,000 per year. This means that six cities the size of Madison are wiped out of existence each year by tuberculosis."

"In addition to the actual loss of life, the suffering caused by the disease is intolerable. It has been estimated that the actual money loss due to tuberculosis in the United States is about $300,000,000 per year.
Yet, in spite of this showing, it is difficult, so at least it has been officially said, to get legislators to give money for the improvement of this plague. It is a sad commentary on our civilization, since tuberculosis is an entirely preventable disease. There is no more reason for its to sit down and accept its ravages as a matter of course, than there is for the same attitude in regard to small pox or diphtheria. In the city of New York there are about 10,000 deaths per year from tuberculosis;
yet no one thinks of condemning the health officers of that city. If one-tenth of this mortality were due to small pox, or to cholera, or to tu-berculous plague, the public would be in arms against an inefficient health service."

It Kills Many in Wisconsin.

"In the state of Wisconsin there are about 2,500 deaths per year from tuberculosis, showing that there are at least 12,000 people here suffering from the disease. The disease is due to the tubercle, and can not arise except through the agency of this germ. Man derives his contagion from human beings suffering from the disease. The medium of contagion in this case is the expectoration of con-sumptives. Each time a consumptive expectorates, millions of germs are thrown out. If these are deposited in ears, or on streets, or in public places of any sort, they adhere to ladies' skirts and to the shoes of men and women alike, and are carried into dwellings, where they are distributed on the door-mat or through the different rooms. As soon as dry, the expectoration becomes pulverized, and sweeping or walking will disseminate the germs to the air; and in this way they gain access to the lungs of the people in the home. It is for this reason that such a campaign has been waged throughout our country against the uncleanly habit, so peculiar to Americans, of spitting promiscuously.

Danger From Cattle.

"Man is the most important source of contagion for man. The second source of infection is from diseased cattle. Tuberculosis is very prevalent in cattle, and it has been definitely proven that the milk of cows suffering from tuberculosis frequently contains germs. Children who are fed largely on milk during the first years of their lives are particularly liable to this source of contagion.
It has been partially proven by the detection of the bovine germ in the tissues of children who have died of consumption. This illustrates the necessity of stamping out tuberculous from our milk cattle for this reason, to say nothing of the cost that the disease is to farmers from an economic standpoint.

Is Not Inherited.

"Tuberculosis is not inherited. All medical literature shows only about 25 cases of truly inherited consumption. The disease runs in families solely because the sources of contagion are always present. A mother or father, for instance, who has tuberculosis, coughing around a house is constantly secreting germs of the disease which are taken up by the children; but it is absolutely impossible to contract the disease under any circumstances without the germ being present. This is proven in lower animals by the method instituted in Denmark of taking away calves from tuberculous mothers as soon as born and feeding them on healthy milk, or also milk which has been pasteurized.
It is possible in this way to raise healthy animals always, proving conclusively that inheritance plays little or no part in the propagation of the disease."

95 Per Cent Have Disease.

"Everyone who lives in a city, and many of those who live outside cities, unquestionably get their doses of tubercle germs; the question may well be asked, why do not more succumb to it? In large cities, especially in old countries, we find that of people dying from diseases, from 90 to 95 per cent shows the scars of tuberculosis in the lungs. Thus the old German adage that 'Everyone who lives in the end little tuberculosis,' comes very near being quite true. While this seems a terrifying statement, it is in many ways the brightest thing that may be said about the subject. It has demonstrated to us the curability of the disease, as the vast majority of those people have shown no symptoms of it during life, and have gotten well without any particular treatment."

Patent Medicine Curae.

"There is no medicine, nor is any combination of medicines which has any specific effect in the treatment of tuberculosis. The medicines which do the most good are those which improve the digestion and have a tonic effect. The great evils for tuberculous are: first, rest, rest, the cause of the disease, and second, rest, the cause of the disease. Hundreds of so-called 'cure' have been put on the market. With practically no exception they contain opium in some form or other, and alcohol, and without any exception they do more harm than good. If a person has symptoms of tuberculosis, the thing to do is to
at once consult an honest and competent physician, who will advise the patient as to the proper treatment, which consists, as I have said, in obtaining fresh air, good food, and proper rest, medicines being given only to correct temporary disturbances, such as cough or indigestion. In general terms, alcohol, cocaine, opium,
and all the other so-called sedatives,
are injurious in cases of tuberculosis,
and should be taken only under the advice of a physician."

Should Sleep in Cold Rooms.

"In no other disease is the old adage 'An ounce of cure' better illustrated than in tuberculosis. The disease may be avoided in many instances by rearing children on good principles of hygiene, instilling in proper food, on the proper amount of sleep, and on plenty of fresh air. Even delicate children may be changed into robust ones by care and training.
Above all, children should be trained to sleep in cold rooms. There need be no fear of night air. The only difference between day air and night air is that, as a rule, the night air is more pure, being more free from the dust stirred up by travel and the smoke of fires."

WANT NEW ROUTES

IN ROCK COUNTY

Important Move For Additional Rural

Service—Action Should Be Taken At Once.

During the past few years the Gazette has received numerous complaints from farmers and residents of the rural districts, some times individually and many times in delegations, with regard to the present rural route service in the county. "The question is asked if some plan might be formulated by which those who are not receiving the benefit of the free rural service might do so. When the county was laid out originally for routes, some eight or ten in excess of the present number were proposed but for some reason, probably owing to the lack of appropriation available by the post office department at that time, the total number was cut down to nearly the present list. Very recently a number of farmers who are not directly on rural routes, called at the Gazette office to enlist the aid of the paper in behalf of more complete service and the matter was immediately laid before Congressman Cooper at Washington, D. C., his answer was very favorable to the idea and he suggests the best way to proceed to secure the needed routes, or to readjust present conditions, would be for those farmers who do not at the present have satisfactory service, to draw up a petition setting forth just what the complaints are, and suggesting what they desire. To do this, the petition should be accompanied by a diagram to which the petition should refer. The diagram should show plainly the present routes and the proposed changes, with location of persons who would benefit. If this can be done, they should be forwarded to Mr. Cooper at Washington, and at that time will be taken up with the post office department with the probability that something favorable will occur in the very near future."

The attached form might be used to head the petition and signatures should be attached. In order to help the matter along as much as possible,

the Gazette would be glad to, if it is desired, forward these petitions to

Mr. Cooper, and will also be glad to furnish necessary part of county

maps of the immediate district in which the petition is made, so that proper diagram may be furnished. In fact if those who desire to help themselves to better rural service,

will send word to us we shall be glad to furnish proposed petition forms,

and will give all the information possible to more rapidly bring about the desired improvement. It is of great importance that this matter be set up at once by those who are not receiving daily mail service in every part of Rock county, and active steps should be taken to circulate petitions

among those who desire better service, so that it may be brought before the post office department without delay.

Petitions for the proposed changes should be addressed to the Fourth Asstant Postmaster General.

titions:

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

The deprecations being committed in Kentucky by the night-riders, the recent attempt on the life of the chief of police in Chicago, and the "black-hand" misdeeds so generously distributed over the country, indicate a degree of lawlessness which is appalling.

Kentucky has long been recognized as the worst governed state in the union, and its reputation is not improving. While the illicit still, which once made the state famous, is no longer in evidence, the moonshiners, who conducted the industry, are still a prominent feature.

The hope of the state is found in the fact that democratic rule has been broken. A republican governor is now the chief executive, and for the first time in many years a republican United States senator was recently elected.

The man Powers, who has been twice declared guilty of the murder of the late Governor Goebel, and who for seven years has been behind the bars, now has a chance for his life, as the jury did not agree at his last trial, and the governor is likely to pardon him before the close of the year.

But lawlessness continues to infest the state and the notorious "night-riders" are the terror of every community. They are composed of tobacco-growers and represent a trust which does not hesitate to take the law into its own hands.

The organization is fighting the American tobacco company, and growers who refuse to join with them are doomed to all sorts of persecution. Property is destroyed and lives endangered. A Kentucky man in speaking of the Marquette warehouse fire, said that it would not be surprising if the origin could be located to find the Kentucky night-riders responsible.

This is American anarchy, for which no foreign land is accountable, as the participants are full-fledged American-born citizens. It is a sad comment on the intelligence of any state, and a blot upon the fair name of the south, which is already burdened with a race problem far from being solved.

In speaking of the negro, a Florida cotton planter said the other day, "The race is degenerating, rather than improving. Twenty-five years ago, the average black man was willing to work; today he is so independent and shiftless that about two days in the week is all that he will devote to labor, for that supplies him with all the money he needs and he would rather loaf than labor."

This was not a prejudiced opinion, for while there are exceptions, the average colored brother in the south is not ambitious, and aside from the colored convict labor, which builds the roads, and performs the work in the turpentine forests, the race is largely a race of loafers.

Prohibition was a necessity in the south, for while the white man finds no trouble in getting what he wants to drink, the colored man finds it more difficult than voting the republican ticket.

The race problem belongs to the south, and it is far from settled. The population has doubled since the war, and will double again in 20 years. The southern "cracker" is also prolific, and in many ways no more desirable as a citizen than his brother of mixed blood.

JOIN ASSOCIATION TO GET THE BENEFIT

By Being a Member of the Janesville Park & Pleasure Drive Association Shrubs Can Be Bought at Cost.

This is the time of year when everybody who expects to plant some shrubbery on their grounds begins to think about buying the same. The Janesville Park & Pleasure Drive Association wishes to remind the citizens of Janesville again that they may buy shrubbery at wholesale cost if they will contribute not less than $1 and as much more as they feel able to, to the association.

If you are going to plant five or ten shrubs or as many more as you wish, enough can be saved by buying them at wholesale to make the contribution to the association, and both the subscriber and the association be benefited. This should be attended to in the next week or ten days so the association can place their order in due time. There are orders already amounting to about one hundred.

The prices of the shrubs and hardy perennials will range from 5 to 15 cents apiece. Address your letter to The Janesville Park & Pleasure Drive Association, Janesville, Wis.

The following is a partial list of the most desirable shrubs and hardy perennials: Flowering Almond, False Indigo, Japanese Barberry, Purple Leafed Barberry, Sea Buckthorn, Deutzias, red Dogwood, Golden Elder, Smoke Tree, Globe Flower, Golden Bell, Honeyuckle, Hydrangea, Lilac, Tea Tree, Camellia, Japanese Quince, Kerria, Bowleria, Indian Currant, Snowball, Spirea in several varieties, Sumach, Syringa, Tamarix, Weigela, all kinds of roses.

Of the hardy perennials the most desirable are Achillea, Cone Flower, Coreopsis, Day Lily, Daisies, Gaillardia, Golden Glow, Iris, Larkspur, Phloxes—all colors, Yucca.

These shrubs and plants are grown about seventy miles from Janesville, which insures their being hardy in this climate. They will be of the same grade and size of the shrubs planted in the park last spring.

A Thought.

I am coming to believe that there is work for everybody somewhere. It may not be the work we want, and it may not be the place in which we desire to stay, but it will supply creature comforts, and that is a great deal, says Home Chat. Most of us have to do unpleasant things, from time to time, at it is quite possible to do them cheerfully.

If You Fear a Felon.

When you first feel a sensation of pain in the fingers that may mean a felon, at once put rock salt in the oven, pulverize it and mix with equal parts of turpentine. This mixture applied frequently will destroy within 24 hours even a felon that has made some headway.

What Do You Want When You Choose a Dentist?

The very first essential is "Good work."
"Any old thing" won't do when it comes to work in your mouth.
Another desirability is Painless work.

A careful, conscientious, painstaking operator like Dr. Richards uses every possible means at hand to avoid causing you pain.

A third feature which cuts quite a figure is "Reasonable Prices."

They say you can pay $5,000 for an automobile, or you can get a good serviceable machine for $1,000 if you wish. Some makers get far more than others for their output.

It is the same in Dentistry.

Some dentists prefer to do a small practice at large prices to each individual.

Others like Dr. Richards, prefer to do a large practice at a smaller fee from each patient.

Dr. Richards has fixed up many a decayed tooth for 75c, and sent the patient away so satisfied in every way that he has sent all his family and friends for their work.

Whereas you might have charged the man $5.00 and never seen him again.

Sum it up and you find it about this way—

"Good work"
"Painless work"
"Reasonable Prices."

ACTION AGAINST EDGERTON CHIEF

WENT TO JURY AT TEN O'CLOCK THIS MORNING.

FALSE ARREST IS CHARGE

Preferred by Franklin E. Cook Against Philip Welch—No Verdict at 3:30 P. M.

At ten o'clock this morning the case of Cook vs. Welch went to the jury consisting of C. E. Andrews, George Schuch, George Wolf, J. A. Dennison, George Smith, Warren Anderson, William F. Lewis, William P. Langford, Fred Lester, Henry Olson and David Lawrence. At half past three o'clock this afternoon the twelve men had not agreed upon a verdict.

Franklin E. Cook is a farmer residing about two miles northwest of Edgerton and Philip Welch is city marshal there. On the 7th of last January the plaintiff and his son were arrested in one of the saloons of the Tobacco City. There was presently a commotion out in front of the place and City Marshal Welch alleged that upon reaching the scene he found the senior Cook beating against the building in an intoxicated condition and following his son to the door and following him into the saloon. He then arrested both father and son and put them in the lock-up. In justice court, next morning, the man is alleged by the defendant to have confessed that he was ashamed of himself and to have obtained his freedom on promise of good behavior. On the 22d he commenced an action for false arrest. The case was vigorously fought by Carpenter & Carpenter, for the plaintiff, and William Smith and M. O. Mount, for the defendant. In the course of the argument Attorney E. W. Carpenter scored the head of the police department and made an eloquent appeal to the inalienable right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness guaranteed by the Constitution. Attorney William Smith maintained on the other hand, that the friends of that immortal document, while stipulating happiness, hardly intended or expected that its beneficiaries should go and get drunk in the pursuit thereof.

Matthews Case

After this case had gone to the jury, Atty. J. D. McGowan and T. S. Nolan took up a new phase of the guardianship litigation of James A. Matthews. Fourteen years ago Matthews was adjudged to be incapable of transacting anything more than petty business and his property, including a 240-acre farm in the town of Newark, placed in charge of a guardian named Nelson. The latter recently resigned his duties and Matthews, through Atty. McGowan, petitioned to have the county court pass upon his competency. His children, through Atty. McGowan, demurred to the petition on the ground that such an action could not be properly brought by an incompetent person. Judge Sale held that the petition was proper and Judge Graham sustained the county court's decision. The matter will now go before the supreme court on appeal. Meanwhile Matthews, through his attorney, has had Geo. H. Merrill appointed as a receiver, and the children are seeking to have this receivership set aside. After this question has been adjudicated it is said that a damage action will be commenced by Matthews against his children and all responsible for the real or fancied wrong done to him, including James Cox, the tenant, who is alleged to have sold livestock from the farm without permission from anybody.

BASKETBALL GAMES PLAYED YESTERDAY

High School Team Beaten and Y. M. C. A. Five Easily Victorious.

When the Janesville high school basketball team defeated the local high school five by a score of 34 to 16 last evening in the gymnasium, the hopes of the Janesville athletes, who expected that Janesville would be the state tournament, were considerably dampened. Janesville had beaten Winnebago once and if they had beaten them last evening the local team would have been in the state tournament to be held at Appleton soon. As it is now a game will have to be played on a neutral floor to decide which team shall be entered, according to Mr. Graves of Appleton. The floor caused the defeat of the Janesville team more than anything else. The gallery projected over the floor and was very low, so that there was no chance to pass the ball out when once it was under there. The result was that team work was almost impossible.

The Janesville team lined up as follows: Roger Cunningham and Stuart Richards, forwards; Roy Chace, center; Elsworth Strang and Floyd Benson, guards; Frank Robertson and Verne Merrill, substitutes.

Y. M. C. A. vs. Stoughton

At the Y. M. C. A. building last night the Y. M. C. A. team decisively defeated the Stoughton city team by a score of 56 to 15. Bruce Kline played the star game for the home players, making 28 points in all.

At the end of the first half the score stood 28 to 8 in favor of Janesville and the visitors never really got a foothold.

In the preliminary game the Seniors defeated the Business Men's team by eight points, the final score being 12 to 4.

The Y. M. C. A. management is trying to arrange a game with the high school five to be played within the next two weeks.

Brookhead vs. Elkhorn

The Brookhead high school team was badly beaten by the Elkhorn high school five last evening at Elkhorn.

Ladies' Hospital Aid Society: The members of this society held their first meeting at the convent last Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of sewing for the hospital. Seventeen ladies were present. They did good work, making one dozen and a half sheets, twenty-six draw sheets, besides several pads and banding many towels. The ladies had a pleasant afternoon and adjourned to meet next Wednesday, March 18th, at 2 p. m. Instead of Tuesday which will be St. Patrick's day.

Slashed a Finger: Gus Baker, a carpenter employed at McGowan's factory, so severely slashed his finger with a razor while shaving that Dr. Parsons was called and several stitches taken in the wounded digit.

Marriage Licenses: Applications for marriage licenses have been filed by Oly A. Westby of Porter and Clara Matilda Brunell of Union; Thomas Kelly, Jr., and Beale Cox, both of Newark.

Contracted for Rink: At a meeting of the Southern Wisconsin Rink association held at McVeen's store last evening a contract was made with Manager Connors for the use of the rink during the exposition planned for next January.

Night Trip to Fair Grounds: At midnight word reached the police station that a trio of suspicious characters had been seen entering one of the horse-barns at the fair grounds and Officers William Mason, Thomas Morrey, and Samuel Brown hastened forth with the patrol wagon. The trio evidently got wind of their coming, for no trace of them could be found. The complaint was phoned in by members of a family living in the old hotel hall who had been watching the movements of the trio since the previous evening.

Juley Apples: E. Ellsworth this morning received twelve Wolf River apples, which weigh in the aggregate twelve pounds, picked last fall and were as juicy as when taken from the tree.

An Hour with Men: At the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow at 3 p. m. there will be a special opportunity to spend a very interesting and profitable hour with men. F. Carle will be the principal speaker, subject: "Not a Hypocrite, but a Real Man," special music, male quartette and orchestra. The freedom of expression and the informal nature of this men's hour from 3 to 4 every Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. has so gotten a hold of some of our best men that the opportunity is appreciated. Let every man in the city feel he is personally urged to attend, and bring his friends. A royal welcome awaits every man.

FARM HELP IS IN A GREAT DEMAND TODAY

Commissioner of Labor is Surely Taxed to Find the Numbers Wanted.

During the past month the commissioner of labor through the Wisconsin Free Employment office has placed hundreds of men on farms, and there are still many openings for those desiring to go on a farm. There are many men out of employment in the cities, but they seem to prefer to hold out until they can find work in their particular occupations even if they must face poverty for a while.

If the workingman will stop to consider the large part of his income which he spends for rent, food and fuel in the city, he will see that the low money wages paid in cash on the farm are not so low in reality. Persons wishing to go on a farm should address any one of the Free Employment offices in Milwaukee, Superior, Oshkosh or La Crosse and should give references and details regarding the conditions under which they would go on a farm. Farmers desiring help should state kind of work to be done, wages, and whether they would pay railroad fare.

GUILTY, SAYS JURY IN BIG GRAFT CASE

ALL CAPITOL DEFENDANTS ARE CONVICTED.

RE-TRIAL MOTION IS PUT

Pennsylvania Litigation Comes to an End Before Judge Kunkel at Harrington, Pa.—Verdict Heard in Silence.

Harrisburg, Pa., Mar. 14.—Late Friday night the jury in the capitol graft case returned a verdict of guilty as to all defendants in the capitol trial.

The verdict was given two minutes after the jury came in. It had been out since 12:15 p. m. The verdict was received in silence and when announced Judge Kunkel thanked the jurors for their patience and the care given. Motions for re-trials were made for Sanderson, Snyder, Mathews and Shumaker at once.

Four Found Guilty.

The men found guilty are John H.
Sanderson, contractor; William P.
Snyder, former auditor general; W. L.
Mathews, former state treasurer, and James M. Shumaker, former superintendent of public buildings and grounds. The jury came into court and Foreman Kunkel, in reply to Clark of the County Wardens, announced that they had agreed upon a verdict.
It was read to the court and then announced. The jury was not polled, but when the clerk read the verdict, convicting all of conspiracy, each man gave his assent by a nod.

Two Defendants in Court.

Judge Kunkel thanked the jurors for their patience and the care given to the case and dismissed them with the customary thanks of the court.
The entire proceeding occupied ten minutes. Only Sanderson and Snyder were in court when the verdict was given, and neither would talk. None of the counsel for the defendants would say anything about the case.
The state's attorneys when questioned, said that they were pleased with the result of the hard work.
Maximum penalties for each defendant in this case is two years' imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

Furnishing Fraud Charge.

The four men were convicted of defrauding the state in furnishing the new capitol, which cost the state about $13,000,000, instead of $4,000, 000, the figure at which the contract was estimated. The present case constituted one of the longest jury trials
in the history of Pennsylvania courts, and it attracted much attention throughout the country. The prosecution of the alleged frauds was the outcome of the political upheaval in Pennsylvania in 1905, which resulted in the election of William H. Berry, a Democrat, as state treasurer, in the fall of that year.

Docks Give Details.

Berry threw open the books of the state treasury and showed that the cost of building the capitol was more than three times the amount of the contract.

The case was laid before the attorney general and indictments were found against 14 persons.

When the cases now pending against the four persons who were convicted Friday are concluded the other defendants will be heard. The Shoots Mother-in-Law.

South Bend, Ind., Mar. 14.—Murray Murphy, following the refusal of his wife to give him $100, Friday shot and probably fatally wounded his mother-in-law, Mrs. Morgan, at Berrien Springs, Mich., believing, it is said, that Mrs. Morgan instructed her daughter to refuse the request for money.

Pastor's Wife Burned to Death.
Peoria, Ill., Mar. 14.—Mrs. Weston, wife of Rev. John Weston, for 40 years a pastor of this city, was fatally burned Friday afternoon and died Friday night.

BIG TIMBER, MONT., BURNS.

Business Section Wiped Out—Loss
$400,000—Bahia, Brazil, Aflame.

Butte, Mont., Mar. 14.—Fire Friday destroyed three-fourths of the town of Big Timber, about 150 miles east of this city, on the Northern Pacific railroad. Three hundred families are rendered homeless and the loss is estimated at more than $400,000. For seven hours the fire raged. The walls early became exhausted, badly hand-capped the fire fighters. Women joined in the battle and brought food to the men, every man in the town joining the volunteers. The fire fighters finally massed forces around the First National bank, where the blaze was finally extinguished.

Bahia, Brazil, Mar. 14.—A great conflagration raged in the business section of this city Friday. Forty buildings were consumed, with a loss estimated at $1,000,000.

TYRO (KAN.) BANK ROBBED.

Bandits Take $2,500—Possess Pursues Towards Oklahoma.

Coffeyville, Kan., Mar. 14.—Three bandits Friday held up and robbed
the bank at Tyro, Kan., this county, securing $2,500, after which they fled towards the Oklahoma line. One of the robbers guarded the outside while the other two secured the money.
There were three men in the bank when the outlaws entered. With drawn revolvers the bandits ordered the three men to hold up their hands and the order was obeyed. The robbers then gathered up all the money in sight, rushed out of the bank and all three put spurs to their horses and rode away with a posse in pursuit.

Dies in Gun Duel.

Carmel, Ill., Mar. 14.—John W. Ful-ford was killed and Loten Dale was seriously wounded in a gun duel in Main street Friday. Dale was arrested. It is said the men, who were horsemen, quarreled over the alleged theft of eggs. There were many people in the street at the time of the shooting.

Sam Expedition Off.

Tangier, Mar. 14.—A steamer carrying a government expedition left here Friday afternoon for Sull, a port in the possession of Muli Hadid, for the purpose of recapturing the place. The expedition consists of some artillery and 1,500 men under the banner of Abd-el-Aziz.

THAW DENIES INSANITY CHARGE.

Evelyn's Divorce Case to Be Placed on Trial Next Week.

New York, Mar. 14.—Denying the charge of insanity and praying for dismissal of the suit, Harry K. Thaw, through his counsel Friday night,
made answer to Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's

ENCROACHMENT IS LAID TO PRESIDENT

SENATOR BACON MAKES CHARGE
REGARDING POWER.

RIGHTS TAKEN, HE SAYS

Criticism by Georgia Member of Upper House of Congress is Pointed and Unveiled—Becomes a Custom.

Washington, Mar. 14.—Executive encroachment upon legislative power was the subject of a stirring speech in the senate Friday by Senator Bacon of Georgia.

His criticism of the president, pointed and not veiled in any manner, was called out during the last hour of the session. Mr. Bacon read a newspaper clipping in reference to a conference held at the White House at which legislation exempting labor organizations from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law and permitting pooling by railroads was said to have been discussed. He said he was sure the statement was correct, also it would have been denied in no uncertain terms.

"Are we to understand," asked Mr.
Foraker, interrupting, "that every senator had a right to be invited to such a conference and that legislation should be framed in the White House rather than in the halls of congress?"

Becomes Custom, Says Bacon.

Mr. Bacon, without replying directly to Mr. Foraker, said that assumption of legislative authority had been going on for years and the right of the departments to dictate legislation had been asserted until senators had been accustomed to it and there was no longer much indignation expressed.

"It is not," he said, "simply in the framing of law that this applies, but to the dictation of law making. This recalls my visit to another legislative body where no negative was called for nor taken. I inquired why the negative vote was not taken and I was told that it was not necessary, because the president had sent them the laws to pass. I was told there was a power that could defeat any senator or representative. I want to say in that country it is true that the chief executive officer can designate who shall come to congress and who shall not come to congress.

"What country is it?" inquired Mr.
Tillman, looking toward the Republican side where many of the leaders of the majority were sitting.

Sounds Note of Warning.

"I shall not name the country," replied Mr. Bacon, "but I have been there and have seen these things. I wish to know whether that is the fate that awaits the American people and if it is true that the president of the United States sends the laws here and they are to be passed at his bidding?
Possibly," added Mr. Bacon, hesitating before taking his seat, "something I have said may be imprudent, withstanding, it is true." Mr. Tillman asked whether it was not also true that the president is now making pence with the "captains of industry"
in order to get their support in view of his nomination or the nomination of his lieutenant.

Mr. Bacon said he had no right to express an opinion on that, what he had said merely being fact.

"Well, you can guess, can't you?" I can," retorted Mr. Tillman.

"I have been chilled," said Mr. Bacon, rising from his place and looking toward his Democratic colleague,
"for apologizing for what I have said, but I coupled my statement with the remark that it was true."

"Why is it imprudent for you to say what you have?" asked Mr. Tillman.
To this remark Mr. Bacon made no reply.

JAMES T. MCCLEARY.

New York, N. Y., March 13.—James T. McCleary, second assistant postmaster general, made a strong plea for ship subsidy before the New York State Postmasters' association at the Hotel Astor.

Mr. McCleary has charge of transportation of United States mails by sea and sees perhaps more clearly than others the absolute necessity of American merchant marine. In the course of his speech he declared that colleagues in Washington were greatly agitated during the passage of our Atlantic fleet through the Straits of Ma-gellan and were filled with great apprehension because the auxiliary fleet, with the one exception is made up entirely of foreign ships.

"It is a matter of duty," he said,
"to change all this. A fleet without the proper auxiliary vessels, without coal and supplies, is like a thief without guns. Suppose, if you will, that the fleet of an enemy had met our coast and carried them out to sea, taken what coal they wanted and sunk them, and our fleet had then arrived at the straits. Then what? What could that $200,000,000 fleet have done then? Telegraph lines would have been cut. This is only a hint of what might be. We must have an auxiliary fleet of our own."

Mr. McCleary was born in Ontario and educated in Montreal. He then came over into Wisconsin where he taught school for several years. In 1891 he was chosen president of the

INDIVIDUAL COFFEE POTS

A novelty of interest to the housekeeper has just introduced with growing favor in the east. This is an individual coffee machine. The individual arrangements are just the thing that bachelor girls and the owners of kitchenette apartments have longed for. The strainer is like a small round sieve with a handle. It has

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household care or in social duties and functions, which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, much nervous sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife would be unnecessary in many cases. It is a most valuable remedy for the most common ailments of women. The Favorite Prescription has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Hear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmful character, but is a medicine of known composition, a full list of all its ingredients being printed in plain English, on every bottle wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is unsalubrious in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of women's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as a remedy for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended. A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. J. C. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE MYSTERY

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE
And SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY MACLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

"He caught the evasion. 'I thought so. Well, if you got any kick on us, please, sir, go get the old man. If he says to our face pound cable, why pound cable it is. Ain't that right, boys?'"

"They murmured something. Perhaps deliberately dropped his hammer and joined the group. My hand strayed again toward the sawed off Colt's 45."

"I wouldn't do that," said Handy Solomon, almost kindly. "You couldn't kill us all. And what good would it do?"

"Perdona," said I firmly, "put up that knife."

I make you that, I can cut down a chicken with my knife at twenty feet. You must surely see, sir, that I could have killed you too easily while you were covering Pancho there. This ain't got to be a war, Mr. Eagan, just because we don't want to work without any sense to it."

There was more of the same sort. I had plenty of time to see my dilemma. Either I would have to abandon my attempt to keep the men busy or I would have to invoke the authority of Captain Solover. To do the latter would be to destroy it. The master had become a stuffed figure, a boggy with which to frighten, an empty bladder that a prick would collapse. With what grace I could muster I had to give in.

"You'll have to have it your own way, I suppose," I snapped.

Thrackles grinned, and Pulz started to say something, but Handy Solomon, with a peremptory gesture and a black scowl, stopped him short.

"Now, that's what I call right proper and handsome!" he cried admiringly. "We really had no right to expect that, boys, as coming from our first officer. You can kiss the book on it that very few crows have such kind masters. Mr. Eagan has the right, and we signed to it all straight to work up as he pleases, and what does he do? Why, he up and gives us a week's shore leave, and then he gives us light watches, and all the time our pay goes on just the same. Now, that's what I call right proper and handsome conduct, or the devil's a preacher, and I venture with all respect to propose three cheers for Mr. Eagan."

"They gave them, grinning broadly. The villain stood looking at me, a sardonic gleam in the back of his eye. Then he gave a little hitch to his red head covering and sauntered away humming, between his teeth, I stood watching him, choked with rage and indecision. The humming broke into words:

"Oh, quarters! oh, quarters!" the jolly fellow high, blew low, what care we! But the quarters that we gave them was to sink them in the sea. Down on the coast of the high Barbary—"

"Here, you swab," he cried to Thrackles, "and you, Pancho, get some wood, lively! And, Pulz, bring us a pair of water. Doctor, let's have duft to celebrate on."

The men fell to work with alacrity.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THAT evening I smoked in a splendid isolation while the men whistled apart. I had nothing to do but smoke and to chew my cud, which was bitter. There could be no doubt, however I may have saved my face, that command had been taken from me by that rascal, Handy Solomon. I was in two minds as to whether or not I should attempt to warn Eagan of the danger. Yet what could I say and against whom should I warn them? The men had grumbled, as men always do grumble in idleness, and had perhaps talked a little wildly, but that was nothing.

The only indisputable fact I could adduce was that I had allowed my authority to slip through my fingers. And adequately to excuse that I should have to confess that I was a writer and no handler of men.

I abandoned the unpleasant train of thought with a snort of disgust, but it had led me to another. In the joy and uncertainty of living I had practically lost sight of the reason for my coming. With me it had always been more the adventure than the story. My writing was a byproduct, a utilization of what life offered me. I had not set sail possessed by the sole idea of ferreting out Dr. Schermerhorn's investigations, but the gradual development of affairs had ended by absorbing my every faculty. Now, cast into an eddy by my change of fortune, the original idea regained its force. I was out of the active government of affairs, with leisure on my hands, and my thoughts naturally turned with curiosity again to the laboratory in the valley.

Darrow's "devil fire" was again painting the sky. I had noticed them from time to time, always with increasing wonder. The men accepted them easily as only one of the unexplained phenomena of a sailor's experience, but I had not as yet hit on a hypothesis that suited me. They were not allied to the aurora. They differed radically from the ordinary volcanic emanations and scarcely resembled any electrical displays I had ever seen. The night was deep. The stars bright. I resolved to investigate.

Without further delay I arose to my feet and set off into the darkness. Immediately one of the group detached himself from the fire and joined me. "Going for a little walk, sir?" asked Handy Solomon sweetly. "That's quite right and proper. Nothing like a little walk to get you fit and right for your bunk."

He held close to my elbow. We got just as far as the stockade in the best of the array. The lights we could make out now across the zenith, but owing to the preeminence of the cliffs and the rise of the arroyo had it was impossible to see more. Handy Solomon felt the defenses carefully.

"A man would think, sir, it was a camouflaged island," he observed. "All so tight and tidylike here. It would take a ship's guns to batter her down. A man might dig under these here two gates like if no one was against him. Like to try it, sir?"

"No," I answered gruffly.

From that time on I was virtually a prisoner, yet so carefully was my surveillance accomplished that I could place my finger on nothing definite. Some one always accompanied me on my walks, and in the evening I was herded so closely as any cattle.

Handy Solomon took the direction of affairs off my hands. You may be sure he had no very heavy tools. The men cut a little wood, carried up a few pails of water. That was all.

Lacking incentive to stir about, they came to spend most of their time lying on their backs watching the sky. This in turn bred a languor which is the sickest, most soul and temper destroying affliction invented by the devil. They could not muster up energy enough to walk down the beach and back, and yet they were worried to death of the inaction. After a little they became irritable toward one another. Each suspected the other of doing less than he should. You who know men will realize what this meant.

"The atmosphere of our camp became surly. I recognized the precursor of its becoming dangerous. One day on a walk in the hills I came on Thrackles and Pulz lying on their stomachs gazing down fixedly at Dr. Schermerhorn's camp. This was nothing extraordinary, but they started guiltily to their feet when they saw me and made off, growling under their breaths.

All this that I have told you so briefly took time. It was the eating through of men's spirits by that worst of corrosives, idleness. I conceive it unnecessary to weary you with the details.

The situation was as yet uneasy, but not alarming. One evening I overheard the beginning of an aboriginal plot to gain entrance to the valley. That was as far as detail went. I began to feel that I should Clear Musty Room.

When a musty odor is perceptible in a room place some charcoal in a dish or hang it up in a little bag of net or cheesecloth. This will purify the air and absorb the odors.

The Name of It.
"This," murmured the potted Angora cat, as her saucer, filled with the richest extract of the dairy was put before her, "is tasting the cream of life in the lap of luxury!"

FRIDAY'S SESSIONS VERY INTERESTING

Last Day of Green County Institute Proves to be Much the Best.

That the first two sessions of the Farmers' Institute were somewhat disappointing, owing to a lack of interest, is more or less true, but if the attendance was small and interest seemingly lacking for those two sessions, those of yesterday afternoon and evening fully made up what lacked before. Yesterday afternoon, Mr. McKenro, Jr., gave a very able talk on tuberculosis, its prevention and treatment, bringing out many points of interest to every raiser of stock. It was both interesting and instructive.

Mrs. Howie of Elm Grove talked on two subjects—the dairy cow and chicken. She dwelt at length upon both from the standpoint of experience and she had not proceeded far ere the audience discovered she was master of the situation. Both talks were logical, convincing, and not a word escaped the large audience. She at all times brought out her points clearly and further impressed upon her listeners by practical stories. This session practically closed the institute work with the exception of another talk by Mrs. Howie.

Friday evening's session was opened by Mr. Fred Thos presiding, who made a few remarks, which were followed by a selection by a male quartette composed of Messrs. J. C. Berryman, C. A. Anderson, C. A. Steele, and F. A. Harrison who sang, "My Old Kentucky Home." For an encore they gave "Maumey's Poor Little, Black Little Lamb." Next came a soprano solo, "The Last Rose of Summer," by Mrs. Will Green of Orfordville. For an encore she gave "There's a Little Boy for Sale." Mrs. Howie was then introduced and for more than an hour she had the close attention of all, choosing for her subject "Home-making." She began with farm life, told why the boys left the farm, told the more alluring life of our great cities, gave it as her opinion that the average farm home was not nearly as attractive as they had been in the audience what they had done to keep their boys on the farm. She said a warm tribute to the Wisconsin College of Agriculture and told of the many advantages which are obtained by attending there, that the educated farmer could do his work with less labor than the uneducated man. She also gave advice to the boys upon what they should do toward making the home what it ought to be; told them how to choose a wife and how to become good husbands, etc. Then addressing the young ladies Mrs. Howie desired to impress upon their minds the necessary qualifications of a good wife, the companion a man desired for a helpmate, and the essential to be acquired before a home-maker. She then admonished all old and young to put forth more effort to make the home more attractive, more pleasant, and a place never to be forgotten for its happy environment. She depicted the up-to-date farmer and his home a home of content, cheerfulness and love where peace and plenty would always abound.

Mrs. Howie's talks were the most interesting of any on the program and were received with marked attention.

Another selection by the male quartette closed the evening's program and also the institute.

Mr. A. G. R. Plock went to Janesville yesterday afternoon where he will have an operation on his left eye which has some kind of a growth under the upper lid.

Messrs. and Mesdames P. R. Burns and A. Durner went to Janesville Friday where they attended the funeral of Mr. John Dempsey.

Mr. Will Grady spent Friday in Janesville.

Mrs. A. E. Stewart was here from Edgerton Thursday and attended Mrs. Booth's lecture.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Babel were here from Albany Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Green of Orfordville spent Friday in the city with relatives.

Mr. Dennis Boylan leaves next Monday for Monticello.

Miss Mabel Kammerer is home from Monroe to remain until Monday.

E. E. Purdy was here from Orfordville Friday.

The B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church are having a very interesting rally today and yesterday. Rev. Vaughan of Janesville addressed the meeting last night. Many good and interesting things have been arranged for today.

Dr. McNeill and Mr. J. H. Oliver accompanied Miss Lavilla Macomber home from the Madison Sanatorium where she has been receiving treatment. Last Wednesday evening Miss Macomber is by no means restored to normal health but about the trip will.

Mr. Oscar Hyatt is moving his cigar factory into the rooms formerly occupied by Fleck and Fleck in the Niles and Putnam building.

Mrs. Alvina Patterson of Beloit visited our city on Thursday.

On Sunday evening, March 22, the City Band will assist the choir in the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Egan of Allendale, Kan., arrived here Tuesday for a few days' visit with the latter's sister, Mrs. J. Straw, and other relatives.

Mrs. J. H. Egan was formerly Mrs. H. A. Patterson and has spent much time in this city.

J. H. Egan and his moving picture entertainment are coming here some time next month.

INSTITUTE CLOSED UP AT EVANSVILLE

Very Successful Gathering of Farmers Enjoyed the Valuable Suggestions Offered.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Evansville, March 4.—With the exercises last evening the institute which has been held here Thursday and Friday closed after a most interesting gathering had been enjoyed. In all two hundred ladies enjoyed the cooking school and learned of the use of the cooking box. Last evening the entertainment at the seminary was attended by six hundred. Friday afternoon the program was exceptionally interesting.

Friday Afternoon.

About two hundred farmers attended this session. The first speaker, Mr. Laughlin, gave a very good demonstration as to how lightning rods protect buildings from the lightning and gave a sure protection from fire from same.

Mr. Stiles of Lake Mills then spoke on the dairy cow. He said Wisconsin today is the greatest dairy state in the Union. He did not mean that every farmer should take up dairying, but the choice of one of the many farm industries depended on the man himself; he should choose the one for which he is the best adapted, whether it be dairying, the raising of fat stock, or gardening.

There are two reasons why the dairying business will not prove a failure if rightly carried on. First, there is so much work attached to the business that there is not much danger of too many taking it up and causing over-production. Secondly, with the annual increase of our population through immigration and other sources, the consumption of dairy products are becoming greater daily. What kind of cow shall I keep, may be the question asked. Study the conditions and needs of your local market, but be sure you get a breed from one of the three dairy types. It is a beneficial, also a financial, factor for the farmers in our locality to have herds of the same breed. For example, the farmers of the dairying districts surrounding Lake Mills are united in the raising of Holsteins and find that buyers can come into their town and pick up a carload of dairy cows of one breed and pay more per head than they would if they had to visit two or three localities to get the same number of cows. Don't go into the pure bloods at first unless you have plenty of capital, but buy full-blooded sires and grade up. When dairying is the most profitable if carried on right, but you cannot turn dairy cows out in any kind of weather and allow them to shift for themselves and get the milk you will if you feed and care for them properly. Be sure and select one of the dairy breeds and stick to that until you can get your herd up to that degree of productivity that is as nearly ideal as possible. Don't make the mistake so many farmers are and have been making, that of crossing two of these good dairy types, one with the other. Keep to one or the other and in time you will be master of your business.

Mr. George McKenro then took up clovers and alfalfa. He said one of the few crops that can be grown on the same ground and yet leave it in better condition for the next crop, was any crop belonging to the legume family. Being deep rooted they bring up from the earth the phosphorus and potash so greatly needed to replenish the elements taken from the soil by grain and corn crops. They also make the land porous, and drain it, and their decaying roots fill it with humus, making it capable of retaining moisture even during a droughty period. The ideal soil for alfalfa is the sandy loam with a clay or limestone subsoil, well drained. In sowing it first have a good seed bed. Sow with it as a nurse crop barless barley about 3 pecks per acre. Keep land free from June grass or foul weeds, and cut the nurse crop for hay when grain is in the milk. Then after the first year you can cut three crops per year in Wisconsin but don't try and cut a fourth time but leave that that grows after Sept. 10 to go back on the ground as protection for winter. Cut at first appearance of blossom and you will save two weeks' growth on the crops. Don't pasture for that will kill it out and it will do to kill your cattle and sheep by blood. It makes a good pasture for a short time for hogs only. Grow it under right conditions and after cutting care for it properly, put in barn in good condition and it will be worth nearly pound for pound as much as bran for your cows or stock.

Curious Punishment.

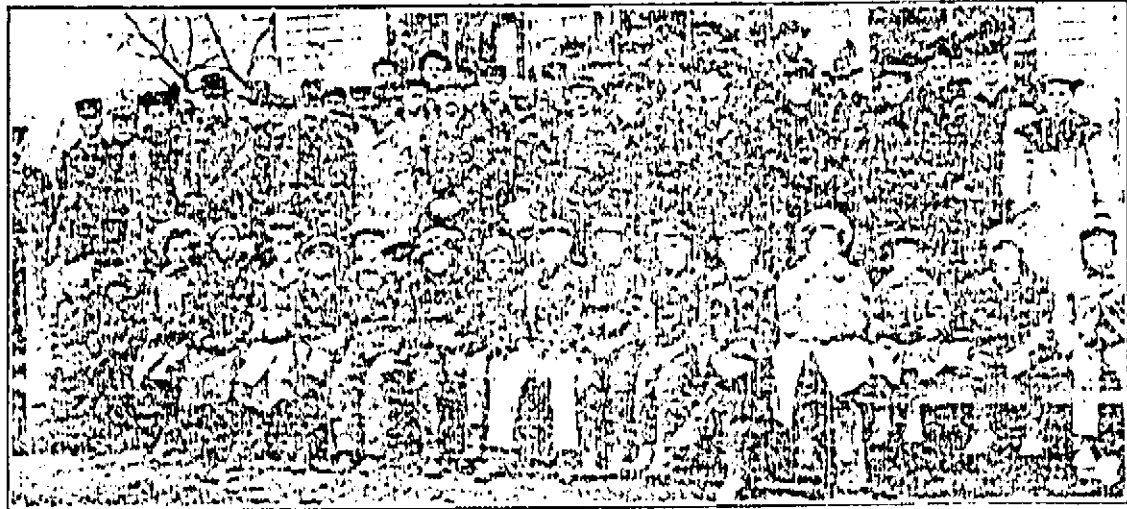

At Kottu, in Saxony, persons who fail to pay their taxes each year have their names published in a list which hangs up in all restaurants and saloons of the city. Those who are on the list must not be supplied with either meat or drink at these places under penalty of loss of license.

STATUE OF WASHINGTON.

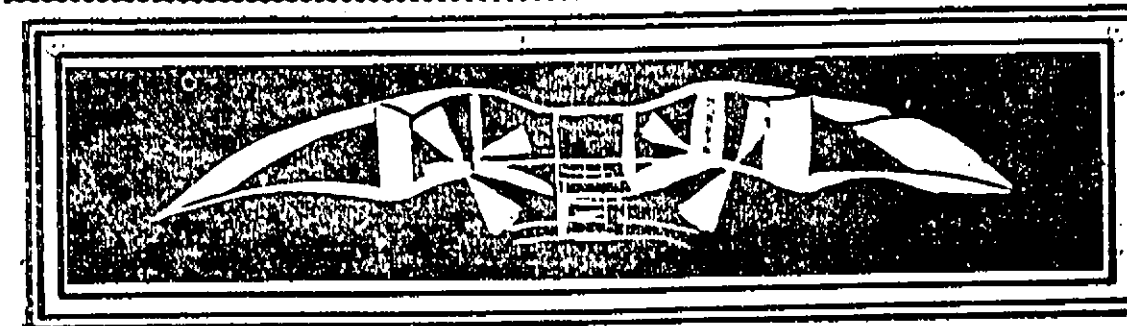

(From Stereoscopic Copyright by Underwood & Underwood New York.)

Richmond, Va., March 12.—The Virginia legislature has just appropriated $10,000 for the purpose of building a replica of the Hamilton statue of Washington, now in the rotunda of the state capital, in this city, to be presented, along with a statue of General Robert E. Lee, to the National Statuary hall in the capital of the United States at Washington, D. C. Both statues are to occupy space in the niche reserved for Virginia. The work is to be either a replica or a modified copy, but the state does not obligate itself to take the risk of having a exact made of the Hamilton statue. If such a step should be found to jeopardize the beauty or safety of the precious bit of marble, a modified copy of the work will be made. Experts will be requested to make a careful examination of the figure and make a report on what is best to be done.

The Hamilton statue is said to be the finest piece of art work in the United States. It is supposed to represent the exact lineaments of the greatest of all Virginians and Americans. It is said by experts to be a better likeness of General Washington than any photograph. The statue is one of the principal attractions of Richmond. Visitors from all over the world stand at its base with un-

FARMERS' INSTITUTE AT SHOPIERE.

Miss E. Laura Todd and her aeroplane, exhibited at the Jamestown exposition.

New York, March 14.—Miss E. Laura Todd is attracted much attention just now, not only by her invention of a heavier-than-air flying machine, but also by the Junior Aero club just formed. This club is composed of young boys and girls who are interested in aeroplanes. The idea is broader than ballooning, for it embraces other subjects of scientific research, such as telegraphy, telephony and the like. The idea in forming this society is to instill into the youthful minds the basic principles that they may in later life conduct research and study along these lines and perhaps invent something useful to mankind.

Miss Todd is the only woman in the world who has designed and made working models of aeroplanes. The above picture is of her aeroplane exhibited at Jamestown.

She is completing a new improved model, which complies with the specifications governing the contest to be held under the United States signal corps. She will enter this model in the competition and hopes to win the prize.

One of the peculiar features of the new aeroplane is that it folds—a 12-foot model folding to 1 foot and a 10-foot model to 14 feet. It is fitted with a two-horse power motor, which was planned and almost wholly built by Miss Todd herself. The most interesting thing about it all is that she does her work in her 12x14 living room, which is not a great deal larger than a half bedroom. Her model for the Jamestown exposition was so large it could not be gotten out the door, and had to be removed by way of the window.

How Long Do Your Collars Wear?

A New Deal By Which We Replace the Collar That Wears Out Within Four Months Free

Here's the Guarantee

"We guarantee that the 'Square-Wear' collars in this box will wear free from cracks, saw-edges or torn button-holes for four months or longer. If they don't we agree to replace them with new collars, provided they are returned to us within four months from date of purchase."

There are no strings to this guarantee. It means exactly what it says. Having applied the most severe tests to "Square Wear" collars—tests for wearing quality, tests in every kind of laundering, tests for fit and size, tests for style and finish—we know beyond a doubt that "Square-Wear" collars have the QUALITY THAT WEARS and will outwear any other collar on the market.

Why take chances with collars that are MERELY CLAIMED to wear longer or be better quality. You know that none of them stand more than a few trips to the laundry.

For years all collars have been made in the same way. Every manufacturer has used practically the same materials, employed the same processes, operated the same kind of machinery, with scarcely any difference whatever in the style, finish, or wearing quality.

We determined to produce BETTER quality and "Square-Wear" embodies every superior point.

We back up these claims with our positive guarantee that they will wear free from cracks, saw-edges or torn button-holes for four months or longer. If they should fail to do so, we agree to replace them with new collars, provided they are returned to us within four months from the date of purchase.

Remember our guarantee means exactly what it says. NO CRACKS—NO SAW EDGES—NO TORN BUTTON-HOLES OR WE REPLACE THEM WITH NEW COLLARS.

Every style, sold 6 in a box, $1.00.

SNOW COLLEGE

Plenty of Time to Complete the Entire Course If You Start Now

Every woman is interested in dress, and the average one desires to know something about the making of her clothes.

Wouldn't you like to know how to sew? Wouldn't you like to know how to make such a pretty shirt waist suit as is here illustrated? Wouldn't you consider it quite an accomplishment?

This dress was made by a pupil who at the time of entering the school knew absolutely nothing about sewing.

You can learn to do the same thing. We offer you your choice of a half dozen courses. You can learn shirt waist making, skirt making, cutting and designing, sewing, ladies' tailoring—or all. You can attend regularly or irregularly, at your own convenience.

THE TUITION FEES ARE VERY REASONABLE; AS A MATTER OF FACT, MOST PUPILS MORE THAN MAKE THEM UP IN THE SAVING OF DRESSMAKER'S BILLS WHILE TAKING THE COURSE. Satisfaction is guaranteed.

A garment cut from a cut-to-order pattern looks better, wears better, fits better, is quicker and easier to make, gives the customer better satisfaction and enhances the reputation of the dressmaker.

The day of guesswork and ordinary patterns in dressmaking has gone by. Dressmakers should cut as successful tailors do—with a first class system.

A pattern can be cut so perfectly that the garment can be stitched complete without a try-on—not just occasionally—but regularly.

Patterns, good or bad, cost good money. THE SAVING FOR JUST A SINGLE SEASON WOULD MEAN A CONSIDERABLE TO THE AVERAGE DRESSMAKER OR LADY DOING HER OWN SEWING.

The time spent in fitting and refitting, planning and trying on is worth good money and if spent in productive work would mean a large increase in income.

Call at the class room and interview the students and see the actual work in operation. If you cannot call, send for our complete literature. It's yours for a postal.

covered head, doing reverence not alone to the man, but the artist who conceived the work. The statue stands alone, surrounded by an iron balustrade. Every care is taken to preserve it intact from the ravages of time. It could not possibly be replaced should any accident happen to it.

Only once has it been taken from the place in all the years that it has stood there. Two years ago certain artists, working under bond, were empowered to take the statue down and clean it. This was the first time that the father of his country had his face washed in a hundred years.
